WILL GOV. HUGHES FAIL?

SOLONS DON'T BELIEVE HE CAN PASS ANTI-RACE TRACK GAMBLING BILL

LARGE CROWDS ATTEND RACES

There Exists Considerable Doubt as to Whether Gambling Instinct Can Be Eradicated by Legislation.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.
BY GLENN GUERNSEY.

New York, May 9.—If the sentiment of the New York city members of the state legislature counts for anything—and the metropolitan solons admittedly have considerable influence in the deliberations of the august body at Albany—Governor Hughes is not likely to be successful in his attempt to secure the passage of an anti-race track gambling bill. There is visible to the nude eye no abatement in the feeling of opposition to the governor's pet measure. The senators and assemblymen will go up to Albany on Monday, for the special session called by the governor, in a decidedly sulky mood. The scenes enacted at the assembly chamber on the final day of the regular session, when the name of Hughes was greeted with boos and jeers, will likely be repeated.

Meanwhile, the race tracks out on Long Island continue to attract the usual large crowds and the bookmakers are doing a flourishing business. While it is probable that a majority of the voters of the up-state counties and cities favor a measure to abolish gambling at the tracks, such sentiment is by no means universal in New York. Most New Yorkers in all walks of life, whether or not they are devotees of the sport of kings, look upon race track gambling as a harmless pastime and its abolition as an infringement of personal liberty.

To the casual onlooker, whose interest in the matter is purely academic, the viewpoint of the man in the street has much in its favor. Why one class of men should be deprived of the privilege of wagering their money on the ability of a certain horse to get under the wire first, while others may legally bet on whether a specified stock is going up or down, is a distinction beyond my limited comprehension. That, of course, is merely an opinion, with which many wiser men will differ. It is difference of opinion, as Mark Twain assures us, that is responsible for horse races.

There exists considerable doubt in my mind whether the gambling instinct can be eradicated by legislation. I once knew a man who, deprived of all other methods of wooing the fickle goddess, Chance, made wagers with himself on whether he should keep his money or throw it into the stove. Incidentally the stove won.

Race tracks are not the only amusements to be abolished, if the reformers have their way. A bunch of antiquated ladies gathered in an uptown hotel this week and passed resolutions denouncing moving picture shows as "a menace to the youth of our city" and demanding their extinction.

I presume they "meant well." From the vegetarian who demands abstinence from a meat diet to the militant anarchist who would "reform" all kings and presidents with bombs, professional reformers always mean well. But just why and wherefore the canvas-back drama and accompanying canned music should be legislated out of existence is another of the things that I fail to understand.

The moving picture business, like all others, has its abuses, but its virtues far surpass its faults. It is estimated that 400,000 people attend the hundreds of New York nickelodeons and "world in motion" theaters every day. On the whole, they see little that could possibly be positively harmful to morals and a great deal that is highly instructive.

That the motion picture shows have come to stay the reformers may as well consider a settled fact. Some of the best vaudeville theaters in New York have recently abandoned the vaudeville field and are now showing only moving pictures. Many of these houses give elaborate programs, including representations of grammas by great actors, accompanied by spoken or phonographed words and elaborate musical and mechanical effects.

The patron of the picture show sees, for a nickel or a dime, a show that is in many respects far superior to the average vaudeville performance in its startling and entertaining qualities. The nickelodeon has become firmly entrenched in popular favor as the playhouse of the poor. An attempt to put it out of existence would be unfortunate, if it were not futile.

Misses Dempsey Were Hostesses.

The young ladies of the Friday 500 club were entertained Friday afternoon by Misses Virgie and Abbie Dempsey, Miss Christine Spencer winning the club prize, a pair of silk hose. The hostesses served ice cream, strawberries and cake. Miss Agnes Dunlap will entertain the club this week.

FOUR LIVES WERE LOST

GASOLINE LAUNCH WENT OVER NEOSHO RIVER DAM AT HARTFORD, KAS.

NINE PEOPLE WERE IN THE PARTY

Six Young Women, of Whom Four Were Drowned—The Body of Edith Webster the Only One Recovered.

Emporia, Kan., May 9.—Four young women, ranging in years from 16 to 20, were drowned last night in the Neosho river at Hartford, near here. The boat in which the party was riding capsized.

The dead are: Elma Webster, aged 18; Edith Webster, 16; Grace Lyle, 16; and Bessie Lawrence, 20.

In company with Kate Griffith, Mary Griffith, Carrol Lytle, Emil Steinpouise and Harold Lyons, they were cruising in a gasoline launch. When the party was a short distance above the dam at the Hartford mill the supply of gasoline gave out and the engine went dead. Steinpouise, acting as engineer, could not steer the launch. Lytle got out of the boat and endeavored to turn it so as to run it ashore, but his strength gave and the launch, with its occupants, was carried by the swift current over the dam.

Lyons rescued May Griffith and Carrol Lytle rescued Kate Griffith. The body of Edith Webster was recovered.

Met With Mrs. Landmann.

Mrs. Frank Landmann, 2023 South Grand avenue, was hostess to the fellowship committee of the Ladies' Aid society of the First Congregational church Friday afternoon. The entire committee was present, together with several invited guests, and the meeting was one of the best in many months. At the conclusion of the business session, during which report was made of the month's work, Mrs. Landmann served light refreshments. As Mrs. Landmann has sold her property, the meeting of Friday was possibly the last that will be held at the old homestead, where so many delightful sessions have been held.

The Apache Tribe Dance.

Extensive arrangements are being made for the closing dance of the season to be given by Apache tribe No. 55, Red Men, at the Sedalia Printing company hall Tuesday night, the 12th. A ten-piece orchestra will furnish the music, and it is assured in advance that all will pass a delightful evening.

Appointments of Red Men.

It Was a Complete Surprise.

Great Sachem Henry H. Edwards, of the Improved Order of Red Men, has made the following appointments for the Missouri jurisdiction: A. L. Fenqua, of St. Joseph, great keeper of wampum, vice William Mack, of Savannah; James R. Card, of Sedalia, great guard of the forest, vice William Mowry, of Graham; W. S. Lowe, of Moberly, chairman of the law committee, vice R. C. Dolph, formerly of Sedalia, but now of Iowa.

Named the Baby "Marie Mary."

Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins, of Ridge-way, Colo., the latter formerly Miss Philomena Rogers, of this city, are rejoicing over the arrival of a daughter, born at their home on the 17th ult. The babe has been named Marie Mary Hawkins.

Will Get the Home News.

A. E. Lovelace, of Elk Head, Ore., through the courtesy of his father, Col. J. M. Lovelace, of this city, will read the Weekly Democrat-Sentinel for the next year.

A crowd of young folk gathered at the home of Miss Maude McDonald Thursday evening, it being the twenty-sixth birthday anniversary of Mr. H. Egdorf, and it was a complete surprise to him, indeed. The house was prettily decorated in yellow and white, and the evening was spent in music and cards, all present having a delightful time. Light refreshments were served, and at a late hour all departed, wishing Mr. Egdorf many more happy birthday celebrations.

SYNOPSIS.

Chapter I.—The Escape opens, not in the romance preceding the marriage of Ellen Slocum, a Puritan miss, and Lord Carrington, of England, but in their life after settling in England. The scene is placed just following the revolution, in Carrington castle in England. The Carringtons, after a house party, engaged in a family fight, caused by jealousy.

Chapter II.—Lord Carrington and his wife each made charges of faithlessness against the other in continuation of the quarrel.

Chapter III.—First objecting against playing cards with the guests, Lady Carrington agreed to cut cards with Lord Strathgate, whose attentions to Ellen had become a sore point with Carrington. The loss of $100,000 failed to perturb her, and her husband then cut for her 1. O. U. and his honor, Carrington winning. The incident closed, except that a liking for each other apparently rose between Lady Carrington and Lord Strathgate.

Chapter IV.—Additional attentions of Lord Carrington to Lady Cecily and Lord Strathgate to Lady Carrington compelled the latter to vow that she would leave the castle.

Chapter V.—Preparing to flee, Lady Carrington and her chum, Deborah, an American girl, met Lord Strathgate at 2 a. m., he agreeing to see them safely away.

Chapter VI.—Ellen fled, Strathgate driving. He attempted to take her to his castle, but she left him stunned in the road when the carriage met with an accident. She and Deborah then struck out for Portsmouth, where she intended to sail for America.

Chapter VII.—Hearing news of Ellen's flight, Lord Carrington and Seton set out in pursuit.

Chapter VIII.—Seton, locating a fishing village, hit the trail of Ellen and Debbie. He then rented a fast vessel and started in pursuit, Carrington pursuing Strathgate.

Chapter IX.—Strathgate, bleeding from fall, dashed on to Portsmouth, for which Carrington, Ellen and Seton also were headed by different routes.

Chapter X.—Strathgate arrived in Portsmouth in advance of the others, finding that Ellen's ship had sailed before her.

Chapter XI.—Strathgate and Carrington each hired a small yacht to pursue the wrong vessel, upon which each supposed Ellen had sailed.

Chapter XII.—Seton overtook the fugitives near Portsmouth, but his craft ran aground just as capture was imminent.

Chapter XIII.—Ellen won the chase by boarding an American vessel and flogging her pursuers—Strathgate, Seton and Carrington.

Carrington and Strathgate, thrown together by the former wrecking the latter's vessel, engaged in an impromptu duel, neither being hurt.

Chapter XIV.—A war vessel, commanded by an admiral friend of Seton, then started out in pursuit of the women fugitives, Seton confessing love for Debbie.

Chapter XV.—Flagship Britannia overtook the fugitives during the night, Ellen deciding to return to Portsmouth, they boarded their small yacht, unknown to the searchers, and started out anew.

CHAPTER XVI.

The Unsuccessful Dash of the Britannia.

To say that Captain Jeremiah Tuggles was angry at the difficulties in which he had involved himself by attempting to further the flight of his compatriots is to put it mildly. He was entirely helpless, however. To have attempted to brave a ship-of-the-line like the Britannia would have been madness. The English levitation could sail three fathoms to his two, and if she could not, a half broadside would have blown the merchantman off the face of the waters. The independence of the United States had been recognized, but the country was yet too new and too weak for England to treat her former colonists with any very great amount of consideration or respect. The ancient habit of authority was too strong and England for years had carried matters with a high hand on the high seas.

Tuggles was a man of sense and therefore he obeyed the imperious mandate from the other ship. He surmised, of course, why he had been bidden to leave to. His unlucky passengers had caused this humiliation to be put upon him and he cursed the kindly impulse which had led him to receive them. He did not send below to awaken them. He would let the people in the approaching boat do that.

One of the Britannia's cutters had been filled with men and dropped overboard. While he watched her, he could not but admire the splendid man-of-war stroke with which the cutter bore away from the brightly lighted sides of the liner and approached his own darker ship. Presently, he heard sharp words of command from the water below.

"Way enough! Oars!" The next moment the cutter softly slid alongside the Flying Star. A second or two later a figure appeared in the gangway and stepped to the deck. The visitor was followed by two others. Captain Tuggles strode moodily aft on the quarter deck. These visitors were not guests and he had no desire to extend to them any hospitality whatsoever. In fact, there was no one to receive them and in the darkness, the decks looked to be deserted.

The second man who had reached the deck, stepped forward, took the first by the arm and walked aft with an assurance born of familiarity with ships and decks. They found Captain Tuggles standing just forward of the mizenmast.

Waiting by the Companion Hatch Where He Could See and Hear.

"Are you the captain of this ship?" began the second visitor, who had acted as pilot across the deck.

"I am."

"What ship is it?"

There was nothing to be gained by withholding the information desired and Captain Tuggles swallowed his wrath and choked out the name of his vessel, where from, and whither bound. That done, he proceeded to interrogate his visitors.

"An' I'd like to know by what authority you stop on the high seas a peaceable trader belongin' to a free nation?"

"The authority of a hundred gun ship-of-the-line, my friend," returned the officer, who was Lieutenant Collier.

The argument was unanswerable. Captain Tuggles, taken aback by the lieutenant's readiness, growled out:

"Well, what did you do it for? I can't afford to lay around idle in the channel for half the night while you—"

"Now, my friend," interrupted Collier, "you had best keep a civil and quiet tongue in your head. The more polite you are and the quicker you answer, the less trouble you give us, the sooner we'll let you go."

"What do you want?" asked Tuggles. "Some of my men? They're all free born Americans, and—"

"It's not men we're after now, but women."

"I've none in my crew," said the American, steadily.

His heart relented at the last minute and he thought perhaps he could stave off the transshipping of his passengers which it was now evident was the purpose of this sea domiciliary visit.

"I have no doubt that you speak correctly," answered Collier, "but these ladies would be on your passenger list."

"This ship don't carry passengers," began Tuggles.

"Now, that'll do, captain," said Collier with a touch of the peremptory in his voice, "two persons were seen to board your ship about noon to-day. One of them was plainly a woman, the other was disguised in men's clothing."

"Who seen them board my ship?" persisted Tuggles.

"I did," said the other figure.

"And who may you be?"

"Sir Charles Seton, captain in the Sussex light infantry, although that's not a matter which need concern you greatly."

"Oh, needn't it?" said Captain Tuggles.

"Allow me, Mr. Collier," continued Seton; "the two persons are aboard here and we must take them off the ship."

"I protest against this outrage," began Captain Tuggles.

"You can protest until you are black in the face, or red, white and blue, if that suits you better," said Sir Charles. "I say the people are here and I mean to have them, and—"

"By what right?"

"Mr. Collier has given you an answer to that question."

"And if I refuse to give them up?"

"Ah! You admit they are here then?" returned Sir Charles, smiling.

"I admit nothin'. But if they were here an' I'd refuse to give 'em up, what then?"

"We'd take them by force."

"And how would you get 'em?"

"I'd search the ship."

"Search my ship?" roared Captain Tuggles. "I have 20 stout able-bodied American seamen aboard here!"

"And I have as many in the boat yonder," said Sir Charles, "and there are seven hundred on the Britannia. Now, be reasonable, one of those persons is the wife of Lord Carrington. She's runnin' away from him—"

"Is it again the law for a woman to run away from her husband?"

"We have nothing to do with that," returned Sir Charles.

"An' how do I know your story's true?" continued the captain. "Americans are not in the habit of runnin' away from Englishmen, not even American women from English lords."

And here the worthy captain spoke truer than he knew. There was even a touch of the prophetic in his voice, but we must not anticipate.

"Whether you believe it or not," said Sir Charles, "is a matter of no consequence. The point is, the women were seen to board this ship and we mean to have them. Neither you nor the crew, nor the women themselves can prevent it and you might as well submit to the inevitable, sir."

"You can do what you please," returned the captain, turning his back upon the Englishmen and stalking aft.

"When you're through with my ship perhaps you'll kindly turn her over to me, and when I get back to Boston I'll see that this is reported to General Washington."

"He's a gentleman for whom I have great respect," returned Sir Charles, easily, "and I shall be interested to know what he thinks of you for abducting the wife of a peer of England on the high seas."

"Abductin'!" roared Captain Tuggles turning from aft. "I like that. She boarded of her own free will."

"Mr. Collier," said Seton, interrupting the captain who quickly subsided when he saw he was out of the game, "perhaps you will be good enough to assist me to search the ship. I confess that the nautical side of my education has been neglected. Where do you think they are likely to be?"

"If they haven't concealed themselves," returned Collier, "we'll find them in the cabin."

"And how do you get to the place?"

"This way," said the lieutenant, pointing to the companion hatchway.

The two stumbled down, bidding the midshipman who had accompanied them to watch on the deck and summon the boat's crew at the slightest evidence of trouble.

The cabin was dark, since Ellen had taken the precaution to carry the lantern with her, but that seemed to make no difference to Mr. Collier. Bidding Seton stay at the foot of the ladder, he went from one stateroom to another. He tried the doors, opened most of them without difficulty, satisfied himself by a brief inspection of each that no one was within, until he came to the room in which the women had retired to rest. This door was locked. He felt for a key. There was none there. He shook the door, beat upon it with his fist, called out, but there was no answer.

"They'll be there," he said, "or perhaps in the captain's room which should be aft."

He turned to the door of the thwartship bulkhead and found it too was locked.

"We'll go on deck, if you please, Sir Charles," said the officer, "and interview the captain again."

They found Tuggles waiting by the companion hatch. His curiosity had drawn him to a point whence he could see and hear the expected explosion.

"Captain," began the lieutenant, "all the cabins but two are unlocked. We want the keys for those two."

"I haven't got no keys," answered the captain, curtly. "If they're locked—which they be they?"

"One is the after cabin on the port side; the other is, I take it, your own."

"My own ain't locked."

"I beg your pardon, I've just tried the door. You can go below and see for yourself. Perhaps you'd better bring us a light."

Captain Tuggles would have let them grope in the darkness forever had it not been for the complication of his own locked door.

A light was brought from the galley by the cabin boy and the three went below again. Captain Tuggles plunged to the door of his own cabin, turned the handle confidently. Sure enough it was locked.

"You see?" said Mr. Collier.

"I see, but I don't understand," said the captain. "Those two females went into this cabin. I showed them in there myself."

He pointed to the locked door.

"And that's locked, too. Now, captain, we are determined to get in those two cabins and we don't want to do any unnecessary damage to your ship. Have you a carpenter on board?"

"Yes," growled the captain.

"Then you'd better send for him, for if you don't, I shall be under the painful necessity of blowing open the locks."

The captain ran up the ladder and bade the second mate—both mates had been on deck during the episode—send the carpenter aft with some tools for forcing locks. Presently a grizzled old veteran presented himself in the cabin and by Captain Tuggles' direction soon forced the lock of the stateroom. Taking a lantern Seton went into the room which had been occupied by the young women. It was empty. Both bunks had been slept in, however, and on the floor lay Ellen's sword, belt and pistols where she had left them.

"They were here, that's certain," he said, turning to Mr. Collier.

"They've probably gone into the captain's cabin."

"What for, I wonder," growled the American.

"We'll soon see," returned Collier.

"Have the carpenter open that door also."

After fumbling a few moments the carpenter forced open the last door. Again Seton entered, followed by the other two. There was no one there. The captain's eye was attracted by the open stern window. He started, opened his mouth to say something, thought better upon it and stopped. But there were two pairs of eyes in the cabin just as sharp as those of worthy Master Tuggles. One pair belonged to the sailor, Collier, too, noticed the open stern window and he at once pointed it out to Seton.

"I see it all now," he said. "Something must have alarmed them. They left their own cabin, looked it to keep us busy and give themselves time, came in here and went overboard through the stern window."

"Overboard into what?" cried Sir Charles in dismay. "You don't think they've committed suicide?"

Collier laughed.

"Certainly not. Didn't you notice just before dark when we were overhauling the ship that she had a small boat trailing astern. It's pounds to pennies that they've gone in that. Here, wait; I'll find out."

He wriggled out of the window himself, dropped down the Jacob's ladder and peered anxiously aft. There was no sign of a boat. It was dark and he couldn't see very well, but he could see enough to know that from whatever cause, the boat that had been dragging astern was gone.

"You've lost them again, Sir Charles," he said gloomily, as he climbed into the cabin again.

"I'll not believe it," cried Sir Charles bitterly disappointed at this unfortunate ending of so promising a venture.

Captain Tuggles laughed. It must be confessed that he hugely enjoyed the discomfiture of his unwelcome visitors.

"What's to be done now?" cried Sir Charles.

"Nothing but go back to the Britannia."

"What! without searching the ship?"

"Well, we can do that," returned Collier, "but I'm morally certain that it'll be of little use."

"Nevertheless," answered Sir Charles, "I should like it, for they may have been concealed elsewhere and this all may be a trick to throw us off the scent."

"All right," returned the naval officer, "I'll have a dozen of the Britannia's out of the boat and we'll overhaul the Flying Star from stem to stern and from truck to keelson."

"Gentlemen," said the captain, "I'm terribly anxious to get ahead. I'll be honest with you this time. I did take in them two parties about noon to-day. I knowed that the one in men's clothes was a woman soon as I laid eyes on her, but she said she was the daughter of Captain William Penn Slocum of Philadelphia; a man I'd knowed for many years, an' I agreed to take her to Bordeaux whither I'm bound. She said she was runnin' away from her husband. And the other girl was runnin' away from a lover. No, not exactly," continued the captain, correcting himself, "the other girl was runnin' away 'cause she had to. I took it that she was no wise willin' to come with us but she couldn't help it."

Sir Charles' heart leaped at this confirmation of his hopes and dreams.

"An' I give you my word," continued the captain, "that they ain't nowhere else in the ship." "I was down here just before dark, thought I'd fetch them some supper, and they was both asleep, an' I didn't have the heart to wake 'em up. I think it's just as this gentleman says, somethin' must have alarmed them, maybe they heard your hail; their boat was draggin' astern, and they made off in her."

"I have no doubt that you are speaking the truth," answered Seton.

Captain Tuggles started violently. "Nay," said the soldier, "I mean no offense at all, but you don't know Lady Ellen Carrington, and it's quite possible that without your knowledge she concealed herself in some other part of the ship."

"If I suppose her will you take off your men and your ship and lemme go on?"

"Instantly," returned Seton.

"I wish I could do it," said the captain. "All I can do is to send my men to assist yours. Mr. Rayker," he called out to the mate, "have the ship searched. Put no hindrance in the way of these Britishers, and if them two females can be found, fetch 'em aft, for God's sake!"

It did not take the sailors long to search the ship. They found no trace of Ellen and Deborah whatsoever and so reported to Collier.

"I am sorry for you, Sir Charles," said Collier, "but they have evidently escaped you. They're cruising around somewhere in these waters in that boat. Perhaps we can overhaul them at daybreak if we have good luck."

He said, "At any rate, they are not here, and we'll have to return to the Britannia."

"My friend," said Sir Charles, gloomily, "we owe you some reparation for stopping you in this way. If this will compensate, I shall be glad."

He extended his hand with a rouleau of gold pieces in it. Captain Tuggles took the money, examined it critically, walked to the side of the vessel and dropped it overboard.

"What do you mean by that?" cried Sir Charles, angrily.

"It's right that you should pay me for the trouble you've caused and the insult you've put upon me, but that doesn't make it necessary for me to take your money."

"Why didn't you give it back, then?" asked Collier, who was as much astonished as Seton.

"There wouldn't have been any pay if I'd give it back. It goes into the ocean, that'll clean it off. Now, if you're through with me, although I've enjoyed immensely this evening's conversation, please you'll be kind enough to call off my men, take your ship out of my way and lemme go on."

Collier laughed.

"It was that sort of spirit," he said to Seton, "that prevented us from conquering them in the last seven years. Come on, we have naught to gain here. We'll let the American eagle scream undisturbed."

"Yes," said Captain Tuggles, "and it's this sort of spirit that's goin' to make it hot for you if you ever try to fight with us again. The American eagle's never goin' to be any younger and weaker than it is now, and look out next time."

Seton laughed at the captain's gasconading in which there was more truth than either of them dreamed, turned on his heel, followed Collier to the gangway, descended to the boat, which was shoved off and rowed to the Britannia.

A few moments later there was a shrilling of pipes, a hoarse growling, a hurrying of feet along the decks of the liner. Her helm was shifted, her sails filled, her main yard swung, and she went swashing away into the night, an example that Captain Tuggles was quick to follow.

"Captain," said the second mate, whose watch it was, "I suppose these females is lying off here in the dark somewhere, praps if we stand easy we can pick 'em up again."

"I wouldn't have 'em in my ship again," said Tuggles, viciously, "for a thousand pounds. Women are all right ashore, especially when men are at sea, but when the two gits together on a ship, God help us. An' so I says to Mrs. Tuggles, she can keep house in Boston, and I'll keep house on my quarter-deck. I ain't there, and I don't feel that way when I'm in her presence."

With which bit of sea philosophy the worthy captain fades into the darkness and out of the pages of this history.

OLD SORES KEPT OPEN BY BAD BLOOD

Whenever a sore refuses to heal, it is because of bad blood. If the place existed simply because the flesh was diseased at that particular spot, it would be an easy matter to apply some remedy directly to the ulcer that would kill the germ; or the diseased flesh might be removed by a surgical operation and a cure effected. But the very fact that old sores resist every form of local or external treatment, and even return after being cut away, shows that back of them is a morbid cause which must be removed before a cure can result.

The impurities in the blood which keep old sores open, come from different causes. A long spell of debilitating sickness, which breeds disease germs in the system, is a common source. These morbid impurities get into the circulation, and the blood becomes a polluted, infectious fluid, which, instead of nourishing the fibres and tissues of the flesh, irritates and ulcerates them, and continually discharges its impurities into the open sore, and prevents the place from healing.

Another cause for bad blood is the retention in the system of the refuse and waste matters of the body. Those members whose duty it is to carry off the useless accumulations, become dull and sluggish in their action and leave their work imperfectly done, and this fermenting matter is absorbed into the circulation. The weakening or polluting of this vital fluid may also come from the results of some constitutional disease, while persons who are born with an hereditary blood taint are very apt to be afflicted with sores and ulcers.

Local or external applications can not cure an old sore, because they do not reach the blood. Such treatment may reduce the inflammation, lessen the pain and discharge, and tend to keep the place clean, and for this reason should be used, but it can do no real good toward effecting a permanent cure.

S. S. S. cures sores and ulcers by purifying the blood. It removes every impurity and taint from the circulation, and completely does away with the cause. When S. S. S. has cleansed the blood, the sore begins to heal, and it is not a surface cure, but the healing process begins at the bottom; soon the pain and inflammation leave, the discharge ceases, and the place fills in with firm, healthy flesh.

S. S. S. is purely vegetable, made only from roots and herbs, and is an absolutely safe medicine for persons of any age. Under the purifying and tonic effects of S. S. S. the system is built up, and those whose health has been impaired because of the drain and worry of an old sore, will be doubly benefited by its use. Special book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free. S. S. S. is for sale at all drug stores.

ENTIRE FOOT A SOLID SORE. Some time ago I had a sore to come on my foot, and nothing I used would do it any good. It continued to grow worse and eat deeper into the surrounding flesh, until the entire foot was a solid sore, and gave me a great deal of worry and trouble. I tried almost everything I heard of, but got no benefit until I commenced S. S. S. In a short time after commencing this remedy I began to improve, and I continued to use it until it drove the poison from my blood, and completely cured this obstinate sore. I recommend it most highly as a remedy for sores and ulcers.

PARADE OF THE "FINEST"

FIVE THOUSAND UNIFORMED CLUB WIELDERS MARCH IN NEW YORK CITY.

REVIEWED BY GOVERNOR HUGHES

One Feature of the Program Was the Awarding of Medals for Conspicuous Bravery—Heroes at the Head.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

New York, May 9.—One of the most imposing parades of police ever seen in any city marched through the streets of New York city today.

Five thousand uniformed club wielders, infantry and cavalry, participated in the drill, which was reviewed by Governor Hughes, Mayor McClellan, Police Commissioner Bingham and the heads of city departments.

A feature of the program was the awarding of medals for conspicuous bravery. The right to wear these medals is the most coveted honor of the police department.

Every member of the honor squad has, on one or more occasions, risked his life in the performance of duty. Twenty-eight police heroes, who have been awarded the Rhineland, Bell or Meyer medals in the last decade for deeds of exceptional daring, marched at the head of today's police parade.

Broadway Presbyterian Church.

Corner of Broadway and Kentucky streets. Come to Sabbath school at 9:30. The pastor's morning sermon will discuss "The Moral Issues in the Local Option Campaign." Christian Endeavor at 7 p. m. At 8 o'clock a special service for working men will be held. Organized labor and all the working men of Sedalia have been invited. Subject of sermon "Is the Church the Friend of Working Men?" At this service Mrs. Baxter will sing, "Come Unto Me All Ye that Labor." Mr. Lawson will sing, "The Homeland," and an anthem, "There Is Rest," will be sung by the choir. This is "Labor Sunday," by recommendation of the Federation of Labor and appointment of the department of church and labor of the Presbyterian church. Tasteful souvenir programs will be distributed and all working men will be made to feel at home.—D. M. Clagett, Pastor.

Second Congregational Church.

Corner Fourteenth and Hancock streets, T. R. Gray, pastor. Services today as follows: Sunday school at 9:45 a. m., Miss Gertrude Englund, superintendent. Parents, attend this school with the children. The pastor desires that parents instruct their children to remain to the preaching service. Protestant children are growing up without feeling the pressure of the Gospel. This neglect is looked upon by leaders as a fatal error. Forestall the effects in your own child now. Preaching at 8 p. m. and 7 p. m. C. E. services at 7 o'clock. The pastor's efforts are two-fold—to reach the lost soul and bring the church to the higher life of the experience of spirit-fulness—the Christian's secret of a happy life. The results are already gratifying. All praying folk, seeking this good way, meet with us at prayer service Wednesday evening at 7:45. All are welcome.

First Congregational Church.

Corner Sixth and Osage streets, Rev. James Parsons, pastor. The regular services will be held today: Sunday school at 9:30 a. m., young people's society at 7 p. m. The pastor will preach at 11 a. m. on the subject, "The Call to the Christian." At 8 p. m. Rev. S. S. Martin, pastor of the First Methodist church, will preach, in exchange with the pastor. Good music will be furnished by the choir, in charge of Mrs. C. H. Bard, at all services. Let every one come and make his influence felt on the side of right and truth. The Ladies' Aid society will meet next Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the church parlors. Prayer meeting on Wednesday at 8 p. m.

First M. E. Church.

Corner Osage and Fourth streets Sunday school at 9:30 a. m., Dr. Holbert, superintendent. Preaching by the pastor, S. S. Martin, at 11 a. m., subject, "Give Me Neither Poverty or Riches, but a Sufficiency." At 8 p. m. the pastor will exchange pulpits with the Rev. James Parsons, of the First Congregational church. Bro. Parsons will speak on some phases of the local option question. Miss Lynn Gold and Miss Lou Menefee will sing a duet in the morning. Special singing at each service. All made welcome.

East Broadway Christian Church.

Corner of Broadway and Wagner streets, J. J. Setliff, minister. The revival meetings will continue all this week. The attendance the past week has been splendid. Services today will be evangelistic. Morning subject, "Is the Young Man Safe?" Evening subject, "A Change of Heart." We urge a large attendance at Bible school at 9:30 a. m. At the evening service the song "Ninety and Nine" will be illustrated with eleven beautiful slides. We cordially invite you to these services.

First Baptist Church.

Corner Sixth and Lamine streets, Frank Y. Campbell, pastor. The theme of today's sermon will be "The Life of the Just." This evening at 8 o'clock Evangelist Zeb Thomas will preach. The Sunday school will meet this morning at 9:30 and at 7 p. m. the B. Y. P. U. will meet. Tomorrow at 2:30 the Woman's Missionary society will meet, and on Thursday afternoon the Aid society will meet at the church. There will be the usual services Wednesday evening.

Calvary Church.

Corner of Broadway and Ohio streets. Holy communion at 7:30 a. m., Sunday school at 9:45, morning prayer, litany and sermon at 11 a. m., evening prayer and sermon at 8, Friday evening service at 8. We are glad to see strangers with us.—Rev. Douglass Atwill, Rector.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is a non-secret, non-alcoholic and most potent invigorating, restorative tonic and strengthening nervine, especially adapted to woman's peculiar requirements by an experienced specialist in the treatment of her diseases.

Nursing mothers will find "Favorite Prescription" especially valuable in sustaining their strength and promoting an abundant nourishment for the child. Expectant mothers too will find it a priceless boon to prepare the system for baby's coming and to render the ordeal comparatively easy and painless.

Over-burdened women in all stations in life whose vigor has been undermined by exacting social duties, over-work, frequent bearing of children, will find "Favorite Prescription" the greatest strength giver ever employed. It can do no harm in any state or condition of the female system.

Delicate, nervous, weak women, who suffer from frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down distress low down in the abdomen, or from painful or irregular monthly periods, gnawing or distressed sensation in stomach, dizzy or faint spells, see imaginary specks or spots floating before eyes, have disagreeable, pelvic catarrhal drain, ulceration, prolapsus, anteversion, retroversion, or other displacements of womanly organs from weakness of parts, will, whether they experience many or only a few of the above symptoms, find relief and, generally, a permanent cure by using faithfully and fairly persistently Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This world-famed specific for woman's weaknesses and peculiar ailments is a pure glyceric extract of the choicest native, medicinal roots without a drop of alcohol in its make-up. All its ingredients are printed in plain English on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Dr. Pierce thus invites the fullest investigation of his formula knowing that it will be found to contain only the best agents known to the most advanced medical science of all the different schools of practice for the cure of all woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments.

Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets and Antiseptic Suppositories may also be used with great advantage conjointly with the use of the "Favorite Prescription" in all cases of ulceration, and in pelvic catarrh. They cost only 25 cents a box each, at drug stores or, sent by mail, post-paid on receipt of price in stamps by Dr. Pierce whose address is given below.

If you want to know more about the composition and professional endorsement of the "Favorite Prescription," send postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for his free booklet treating of same. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for this remedy of known composition a secret nostrum of unknown composition. Don't do it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equalled. They cleanse, invigorate and regulate stomach, liver and bowels, curing biliousness and constipation. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

fore the sermon. Epworth league at 7 p. m. Preaching at 8 p. m. by the pastor. Special music by the choir. Let everybody attend prayer meeting Wednesday evening. Bishop E. R. Hendrix will preach for us Sunday, June 7. Strangers cordially invited to worship with us.

THREW "ANCIENT" EGGS

At Boys Who Had Called Upon Bunceton Young Ladies.

Two young men, gentlemen in every sense of the word, so far as we know, from another town, members of respectable and well known families, visited our little city Sunday and Monday, being the guests of two of Bunceton's most respected and popular young ladies.

Monday evening, after having called on the young ladies, the young gentlemen were on their way to the hotel. At the corner of College street and Gladstone avenue a shower of eggs came from out of the darkness, cast by unseen hands, and, for the most part, took up their above in a broken condition upon the clothing of the visitors, who made all haste from the vicinity.

They passed on down Main street and when they reached the corner at the Methodist church another shower greeted them, with similar results.

That is all we want to say. In fact, it is more than we like to say about the actual occurrence, for such an act as a disgrace to any civilized community, and it is with a feeling of shame that we chronicle such a thing.

We only mention it because we want to assure the people at large that such an act as this is not countenanced by this community, and to say that it is lamented by every citizen of this place.

You'll admit its wonderful merits, else it couldn't keep the reputation for thirty years of America's most reliable and surest tonic and blood remedy—Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets.—W. E. Ford Drug Co.

NOW IS THE TIME to put on a coat or two of Sherwin-Williams' lasting paints. The Arlington Pharmacy has the agency for these goods.

SQUARE DEAL FOR CHILD

EDWARD T. DEVINE WRITES ON A SUBJECT THAT IS CERTAINLY TIMELY.

THE AMERICAN CHILD OF TODAY

Normal Birth. Physical Protection. Joyous Infancy and Useful Education the Birthright of Present Infants.

BY EDWARD T. DEVINE.
(Exclusive Use From Charities and the Commons Press Bureau.)

New York, May 9.—In certain cotton raising districts of the south there is a strange saying that cotton and ignorance go naturally together. A man's wealth—that is to say, not his well being, which would be right enough, but his money income—is measured by the number of his children, and not, as it should be, by the efficiency of the adult.

Could there be a clearer expression of the old, discredited view of the child? The bag slung about the neck for the cotton is made to fit the child, while the school term is adjusted not to the child, but to the working season. The child is the center of the economic world and not the center of the educational and domestic world, and this means that the child is for exploitation and profit, rather than for nurture and protection.

Thus cotton and ignorance are linked together—not naturally, but most unnaturally, and the industry which is otherwise the pride of the south and of America is blighted, not only in the mill, but from the hour of its planting, joining the sweated industries of the northern cities and the glass works of northern towns as an active cause of degeneracy and race suicide. Though it may be reprehensible for the race to perish for lack of births, it is a more shameful thing to destroy the vitality, to dwarf the minds, to refuse the natural and necessary protection of childhood to the children who are born into the world.

The new view of the child, which we may place against this background, has not been revealed by any single miraculous illumination. Would that some apostle on the way to Damascus could have a glorious vision of the divinity indwelling in the soul and body of the unspoiled child! But it is not so that social workers are guided to the formulation of their new ideas.

First there is the right of the conceived child in the mother's womb to be born. When the children's bureau is established in Washington it may well begin its labors by an investigation of sterility, abortions and still births. The new view, the religious view, the social view, the psychological view, the rational view of the child from every standpoint is that the right to birth itself must not be abridged.

The right to be well born is followed, in the new view of the child, by the right to grow up. We are doing better than our forefathers in this respect. Two hundred years ago, in London, three-quarters of all the children that were born died before the completion of their fifth year. Decade after decade that percentage has been pushed down until now it is something like 25 instead of 75 per cent.

Even now, in 1900, in the registration area of the United States, the death rate for all children in their first year is 165 in the thousand. Milk poisoning, ignorance of mothers as to how to feed and care for their children, inability to nurse them, either for physical or for economic reasons, lack of necessary facilities for surgical and medical treatment, and lack of knowledge in the rank and file of the medical profession concerning the diagnosis and treatment of infantile disorders, are among the causes for this high mortality among infants.

The greatest advances of medical science have been in this field and the substantial reduction in the death rate of many communities is due to the saving of the lives of babies more than to reduction at later age. It is the new view, the social view, that this process should be carried further, and that those who are born shall be permitted not only to survive, but to become physically healthy and strong.

The third element in the new view of the child is that he has a right to be happy, even in school. Pestalozzi and Froebel helped us to think that out. Jane Adams has suggested that one day we shall be ashamed of our present arguments for the prohibition of child labor—that it is physically destructive and educationally disastrous, although these seem like reasonably adequate arguments to start with, and shall recognize that the joyousness of childhood, the glorious fullness of enjoyment for which children are by nature adapted, and by their Creator intended, is in itself a

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the delicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispenses with the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription."

It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients, will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a book mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds, and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of known composition. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound. If sick consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held sacredly confidential.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate and regulate stomach, liver and bowels.

worthy end of legislation and social concern.

It is part of this new view, fourth, that the child has a right to become a useful member of society. This implies industrial—or stating it more broadly—vocation education. I support the suggestion made by Mr. Noyes in one of the publications of the national child labor committee that the school day might well be made longer, with greater variety in curriculum; and that the work which we deny, and rightly deny, in the factory for profit, may be demanded in the school for an hour or two or more daily for education and training.

There is one final element in the new view of the child, the right to inherit the past more and more fully, the right to begin farther and farther along, the right not only to begin where the parent began—even that is denied when through destroying the strength and retarding the education of children, race degeneracy sets in—the right which we now assert—is the right not only to be protected against degeneracy, but the right to progress. It is the new view of the child, the American view, that the child is worthy of the parent's sacrifice, that he must mount upon our shoulders and climb higher, that not only in accumulated possessions, but also in mastery over the physical universe, in spiritual attainment, in the power to serve his fellow men and to glorify God he shall rise above his father's level.

The American child is not unknown in text books and essays and fiction. He has been pictured as smart, precocious, disrespectful and offensive. The child of the rich and preoccupied American, and of the vain and indulgent American, has sharpened the pencil of the caricaturist. Kipling in "Captains Courageous" plucked such a child from the ocean and put him at work on a fishing dory on the banks of Newfoundland which his regeneration required. The neglected and spoiled child of foolish indulgence, and the neglected and spoiled child of avaricious poverty, tend to develop similar or equally lamentable traits. In neither case is there recognition of these fundamental elements in what we have called the new view of the child—normal birth, physical protection, joyous infancy, useful education and an ever fuller inheritance of the accumulated riches of civilization.

A SLAP AT ROOSEVELT?

THAT'S WHY SOME SOCIALISTS WANT TO NOMINATE WILLIAM HAYWOOD.

DEBS IS AN EARNEST SUPPORTER

While Party Polled 406,230 Votes in 1904, the Dues-Paying Membership is Only About 40,000 at the Present Time.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

Chicago, May 9.—"Bill Haywood for president!"

This is the battle cry of the socialists who are gathering in Chicago today for the national convention of the party, which will begin tomorrow. While a few of the more conservative members of the party are opposed to the Haywood boom, the rank and file is for him.

Eugene V. Debs, the Indiana man, who in past campaigns has led the socialists to defeat, is among Haywood's most devoted adherents and was the first to suggest his nomination. At that time Haywood was still languishing in Poole jail, charged with being the leader of the "inner circle" of the Western Federation of Miners and with having hired Harry Orchard to slay ex-Governor Steiensenberg and a score of others.

Since his acquittal, Haywood has been touring the country in the furtherance of his presidential boom. For a time he was paid by the Western Federation of Miners as its traveling representative, but he was recently dropped from the rolls and no longer has any official connection with the union.

For the first time since the socialist party became a factor in American politics, every state and territory of the Union will have delegates in tomorrow's convention. These delegates will represent only the holders of the little red cards of the party who are paid up and in good standing.

As the most revolutionary of American parties and one which proposes to overturn the existing industrial order, the organization has no source of income other than from the workmen who mainly comprise its membership, and each of these is required to pay a small sum monthly as dues.

While the party received 406,230 votes in the last election, when Eugene V. Debs was the presidential candidate, the dues-paying membership is only about 40,000. Only these will have any voice in tomorrow's convention.

Party leaders declare that they expect the socialist vote this fall to be double that in 1904, and that in case the old parties should nominate conservative candidates, a socialist victory is among the possibilities.

Not many of the delegates, however, seriously consider the election of Haywood, but they assert that he will receive the support of many thousands of non-Socialists who will take that method of expressing their disapproval of President Roosevelt's characterization of the labor leader as an "undesirable citizen."

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

What a Heap of Happiness it Would Bring to Sedalia Homes.

Hard to do housework with an aching back.

Brings you hours of misery at leisure or at work.

If women only knew the cause—that Backache pains come from sick kidneys, 'twould save much needless woe. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys. Sedalia people endorse this:

Mrs. Jennie Clayburg, 311 West Seventh street, Sedalia, Mo., says: "My back ached while sitting, lying down, or, in fact, it ached no matter what position I assumed or what I tried to get relief. There was great difficulty in passing the kidney secretions. They were highly colored, scanty and accompanied by pain. I finally began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the W. E. Bard Drug Co., and the use of the first box did me so much good that I kept on taking them until I had used three boxes. My back stopped aching and my rest at night was undisturbed. My kidneys are now performing their proper functions and I again feel that life is worth living."

The DR. CAMP

Medical Co., Sedalia's Leading Specialists

Dr. Camp, who richly deserves the reward he so justly merits by the great success he has attained in the curing of the afflicted of this community

His business has grown to such proportions that he has been compelled to secure assistance, and being ever on the alert to secure the most modern and up-to-date medical discoveries, he takes great pleasure in announcing to the public that he has now associated with him Dr. J. C. Casto, an eminent specialist, late of New York City, who has devoted many years to the scientific investigation of the cause and cure of chronic and special diseases in the best colleges and sanitariums of this and other countries. He brings with him a new and perfected course of systemic medication, the modern Americanized European method of treatment that has worked wonders whenever introduced.

The Modern Americanized European Methods

Dr. Camp states that by these wonderful methods the sick can now be given the benefit of a class of treatment and a quality of skill that they have never had before without going to Europe. We have brought to this city the great medical discoveries and inventions of the old world, in addition to the very latest and best that modern American medical science has to offer for the cure of many chronic, deep seated and special diseases that so baffle the skill of all those who employ the ordinary methods.

Our Great Medical Offices are Now a Wonderful Land of Science

Cost has not been considered in fitting them up and equipping them with every known modern device and mechanism for studying and conquering disease by our new and advanced methods. Here is constantly being waged the great battle between life and death.

Here modern medical science and skill are arrayed against man's arch enemy, Disease—by specialists who are devoting their very lives for the treatment of their fellowman, regardless of the pecuniary reward received. Their long experience and investigation in the science and use of Drugs have so broadened their views that they adhere to no creed, sect, dogma or special school of medicine in the use of their remedies, but they select the best of all from the animal, vegetable and mineral kingdoms and combine them in their own special laboratory and scientifically prescribe them as the susceptibility of each individual case requires. The results are therefore thorough, certain and permanent.

Weak Women. Women's Department

We, as specialists, pride ourselves on our great achievement in restoring the gentler sex to health, strength and beauty. A clear rosy complexion denotes perfect health.

It is the health of the wife, the mother and daughter that makes or mars the happiness of home life. Many suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, well knowing that they need medical attention. The cause is readily traceable to some derangement of the female organs which manifests in various ways, chief of which are a depression of spirits, melancholy, a reluctance to perform cheerfully the daily duties, backache, dragging sensations, unnatural discharges, irregularities, pain in the side, breast, neck or head, nervousness, bloating and sleepless nights, discoloration around the eyes, liver spots, blotches, muddy complexion.

One or all of these symptoms are but timely warnings, and if unheeded, a life of suffering, with serious complication, is the inevitable result.

To all such sufferers we extend a helping hand. Our modern method of examination and manner of procedure is without exposure.

Our consultation free. Our special home treatment for ladies works the most happy results—put up in mailable form for those who cannot call.

The Critical Period of a Woman's Life

The most dangerous and critical period of woman's existence is during change of life, and if you have been a chronic sufferer, beware cancer of the breast or womb, ovaries tumors, palpi ulcerations, etc. All stand ready to wreck your hopes of a ripe old age.

And to those of you who have already encountered these terrible wreckers of happy homes, we bid you hope, for it is on these malignant and deep seated diseases that we have concentrated all our energies for years, and have so perfected our methods that we cure absolutely and permanently, without operation or the use of the knife advanced cases of cancer ovarian fibroids and uterine tumors, together with all other complications arising therefrom, by our modern Americanized European method of painless, bloodless surgery treatment for female diseases.

Our sanitarium connections enables us to accept cases that need constant attention and who are unable to come to our office regularly. If you cannot call, write for further information.

To All Who Suffer

Come to our office and we will make a thorough searching and scientific examination of your case free of charge and if we find that your condition will yield to the influence of our advanced methods, then we will take your case. Our charges are reasonable; our consultation free. We accept no incurable cases.

EXPOSITION IS TO OPEN

ALL IS IN READINESS FOR THE FRANCO-BRITISH IN LONDON TOMORROW.

GRAND INAUGURAL CEREMONIES

The Largest Edifice Is the Indian Court, Where the Products of the Indian Empire Are to Be Displayed.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

London, May 9.—All is in readiness for the opening on Monday of the Franco-British International exhibition, when members of royalty and the nobility of scores of distinguished men of France and England will take part in the elaborate inaugural ceremonies. The final touches have been put on the score of exhibition buildings at Shepherd's Bush, a suburb of North London, and nearly all the exhibits have been installed.

The exposition grounds cover an area of 143 acres and some of the huge palaces are magnificent examples of architecture, comparing more than favorably with the international expositions previously held in America and other countries. Nearly all the colonies of both Great Britain and France have special buildings and exhibits. The exhibition has cost a total of $10,000,000 and is by far the largest ever held in England.

The buildings are spacious and artistic structures, built for the most part of steel, iron, concrete and plaster. Wood is conspicuous by its absence, with the result that all the edifices are fireproof. The giant of the palaces is the Machinery Hall. It is the largest building ever erected at any exhibition. It covers an area of over six acres. Each side building is 661 feet long by 130 feet wide, and the cross building 302 feet long and 210 feet wide. There is a total floor space in this one building of eight acres.

The next largest edifice is the Indian Court, where the products of the Indian empire will be displayed. The hanging space for pictures in the Fine Arts Palace is two and a half times greater than that at the British Royal Academy.

There will also be an Irish village and a native settlement, including an Indian village from western Canada.

The promoters expect to have thirty or forty million visitors, but this will largely depend upon the attendance from France. While the French government and scores of French manufacturers and industrial concerns have given their hearty co-operation to the hearty co-operation to the project, the newspapers of France have paid little attention to it. So far as the expenses are concerned, an uncomfortable suspicion appears to be gaining ground that most of these will have to come out of British pockets.

English newspapers have been full of the exhibition for a long time, but the French journals have taken scarcely any notice of it, and there is some danger that the great mass of French people will know very little about it, and care less. It is said that French publishers feel under no obligation to exploit a scheme which does not bring them any remunerative advertising. An English correspondent writes to a prominent London daily: "But French tradesmen are not anxious to advertise the Franco-British exhibition. French tradesmen are quite anxious to receive orders for their goods, and to be paid for them in British cheques, but they do not think there is anything to be gained by advertising the fact in the Paris press."

"On the other hand, the British organizers of the exhibition, who presumably are spending a good deal of money on it, expecting to recompense themselves for their outlay by the rush of French visitors to London during its run. In theory, of course, they will do so; but we are beginning to wonder, here in Paris—we Englishmen who read the London papers, and therefore know that there is to be a Franco-British exhibition—whether "France has been compared to a pretty woman. She is that, but unfortunately she is a pretty woman whose affections are very mercenary. I should like readers of this article who have had business relations with France to ask themselves which they find easier, buying or selling. NOTES OF THE LIBRARY

MARKED INTEREST IN TECHNICAL BOOKS THE PAST FEW WEEKS.

SIX NEW SETS OF CYCLOPEDIA/S

If Anyone is Interested in Birds and Enjoys Pictures Accurately Colored, He Should See the Bird Chart.

There has been a marked interest in the technical books of the library during the past month. In order to furnish the information most frequently asked for and at the request of some builders, plumbers and mechanics, the library has purchased six sets of cyclopedias, published by the American School of Correspondence. Each article is up to date and written by an expert. They contain detailed information on all technical subjects, concrete walks, automobiles, wireless telegraphy, how to install a steam heating plant, how to build a home, etc.

If any one is interested in birds, and enjoys pictures accurately colored, he should come and see the bird chart, the pictures and the books about birds in the children's room.

Two new novels at the library have been two very widely read novels in Europe during the past year. They are not like the usual popular novel. One is by Rene Bazin, a Frenchman, and is called "The Nun." It deals with the closing of the convent schools in France.

The other is by Carl Ewald, a Dane. It reminds one a little of Ibsen in some of his society plays. It deals with society versus the home in fashionable Copenhagen.

New fiction books have been received, as follows: Bazin—The Nun. Ewald—The Old Room. King—Broken Sword. King—Knight of Columbia. London—Daughter of the Snows. MacGrath—Hearts and Masks. Mason—Four Feathers.

THE "RED CARD" PARTY

IT WILL MEET IN CHICAGO TODAY TO NOMINATE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE.

CONGRESS OF GOVERNORS TO MEET

First Session Wednesday and Will Continue Through Thursday and Friday—Other Meetings This Week.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

Washington, May 9.—Most spectacular of the political events of the coming week will be the convention of the "red card" party, the socialists, which will open tomorrow in Chicago. According to Washington reports, Eugene V. Debs has voluntarily withdrawn from the position of perpetual candidate of the socialists, and William D. Haywood, former secretary of the Western Federation of Miners, will be the presidential nominee. About 218 delegates will represent the 40,000 members of the party in the Chicago convention. The socialist national organization has recently established a daily paper in New York and is preparing to carry on a spirited campaign.

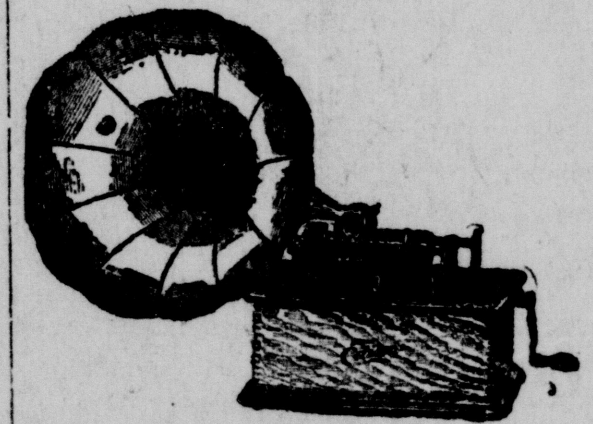

While the congress of governors and other distinguished men called by President Roosevelt for next week, to discuss methods of conserving the nation's natural resources, will have no direct political bearing, it will probably not be without its effect upon the fortunes of the republican presidential candidates. It is understood that both Secretary Taft and Governor Hughes will be in attendance at the conference, and there can hardly fail to be comparisons. William Jennings Bryan has also been invited by President Roosevelt. Governors from many states will be here, and a large number of congressmen will take part in the deliberations of the congress. The first session will be held on Wednesday and the meeting will continue through Thursday and Friday.

Republican state conventions will be held next week in a number of states, including Louisiana, Michigan, Idaho, Montana, California, North Dakota, Oregon, Washington, Georgia, Texas and Virginia.

The first state convention of the week will be that of the "lily white" republicans of Louisiana, to be held in New Orleans on Monday. Delegates pledged to Taft will be chosen. The "black and tan" or negro faction will also send delegates to Chicago, but the whites control the situation and have the official sanction of the state.

Michigan republicans will hold their state convention in Grand Rapids on Tuesday. The state is apparently lined up in the Taft column and there will probably be no opposition to his endorsement. The same condition, in regard to presidential preference, is reported to exist in Idaho, which will hold its republican state convention in Wallace next week.

Thursday will be a field day for the Taft boomers. The state conventions of North Dakota, at Minot; Montana, at Butte; California, at Sacramento; Oregon, at Portland; and Washington, at Spokane, are all expected to instruct their delegates for Taft. The Georgia convention, to be held at Macon, will likely be marked by a struggle between the white and negro factions. A convention of Virginia negroes will be held in Richmond to choose anti-Taft delegates, which will

Texas republicans will get into the ring on Friday, when the two opposing factions will hold state conventions in different cities. The regular republican organization, which favors the nomination of Taft, will meet in Fort Worth, while the reorganized faction, composed mainly of negroes, will hold its state and district conventions in Waco.

legates Present, and Considerable Business Is to Be Disposed Of.

The ladies' auxiliaries of the B. of L. F. and E. of Missouri will meet in annual session at Dobel's hall in this city on May 18, 19 and 20, under the auspices of Pride of No. 78, ladies' auxiliary to No. 225 of the B. of L. F. and E.

This is the first annual meeting of the society and will be held in conjunction with the third annual meeting of the B. of L. F. and E., which meets at the same time in Tiltberry's hall.

Representatives from different parts of the state, including the grand lodge officers and also several members of the organization from Kansas, will be in attendance.

Both halls will be artistically decorated in anticipation of the meetings and interesting sessions are expected.

The following is the program for the ladies' meeting:

On Monday, reception of delegates and visitors at Tiltberry's hall; roll call; address of welcome by Joshua A. Leach; response by G. H. Headbrink; secret session at Dobel's hall at 1:30 p. m.; address of welcome by Della Smith, president of lodge No. 225; response by Mrs. Agnes Strong, of Boone, Ia.

On Monday night there will be an open meeting at Tiltberry's hall, followed by an address on "Boys, Stay at Home," by G. H. Headbrink, followed by speaking by the grand lodge officers.

On Tuesday morning the delegates and visitors will be treated to a trolley ride over the city. At 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon there will be a secret session, followed by an address for the good of the order by Mrs. J. A. Leach.

At 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Thomas Killian will speak on "Organization," followed by a meeting of the grand executive board.

Wednesday morning there will be an open meeting at Tiltberry's hall, followed by a discussion by other orders, after which a secret session will be held, during which the election of officers will take place, after which the convention will adjourn.

On Wednesday evening there will be a grand ball at Dobel's hall, and everything is in readiness for an enjoyable time.

At the last regular meeting of the ladies' society the following committees were appointed:

Della Smith, president of all committees in general.

Banquet—Mrs. Elizabeth Gornall, chairman, assisted by Mesdames Sarah White, McCormick, Wherrill, Hoover, Pennisten, Thompson.

Decorations—Mrs. Anna Spindiff, chairman, assisted by the following: Mesdames Lewis, Voss, Fisher and Henry.

Trolley ride—Mrs. R. R. Canningham.

Reception—Della Smith, J. A. Leach, Tom Killian and Mesdames Amos, Lewis and Murrill.

Committee to meet M. K. & T. trains—Jennie Lewis, chairman, assisted by Mesdames Spindiff, Gornall, Hoover and Moore.

Committee to meet Missouri Pacific trains—Gertie Cunningham, chairman, assisted by Mesdames White, Pennisten and Giffen.

The B. of L. F. and E. Meeting.

The following is the program for the meeting of the B. of L. F. and E.: Monday, 8 to 10 a. m.—Reception of delegates and visitors by members of Golden Eagle lodge No. 78 and Ladies' society No. 225.

10 a. m.—Call to order; address of welcome by Joshua A. Leach and response by G. H. Headbrink.

1:30 p. m.—"The Best Way to Accomplish the Organization of a Legislative Board and the Maintenance of Same"—W. D. Moore.

"The Duties of the Legislative Board with Respect to the Benefits to Be Derived From Establishment of Such Board"—H. L. Roberson.

8 p. m.—Open meeting for ladies and gentlemen, followed by address.

"Boys, Stay at Home," G. H. Headbrink.

Speaking by the grand lodge officers will conclude this day's work.

On Tuesday morning the delegates will be taken for a trip over the city, and at 1:30 p. m., there will be a secret meeting, followed by an address by L. C. Moore on the subject, "Legislation as a Result of the Influence of a Joint Legislative Board."

"What Laws Do We Need Most to Place the Working Men and Railroad Men in Particular on a More Independent Footing?" by D. G. Phillips, will be the subject of the next address.

At 8 o'clock Tuesday night there

JAMES D. MITCHELL DEAD

PASSED AWAY SATURDAY MORNING AT HIS HOME WEST OF HUGHESVILLE.

WAS A NATIVE OF COOPER COUNTY

For Over Fifty Years He Had Resided on the Farm Where He Died—One of Butler County's Best Citizens.

James D. Mitchell, one of the best known and most highly respected citizens of Pettis county, died at his home, six miles west of Hughesville, at 5 o'clock Saturday morning, after an illness of one month, but bedfast only four or five days, from dropsy of the heart, aged 73 years.

Deceased was born in Cooper county, Missouri, and had lived on the farm where he died for nearly fifty years. He had reared a family of eight children, five boys and three girls, all of whom have grown to manhood and womanhood, and who, with his wife, survive him.

With one exception, all were with him when he died.

The children are: Thomas H. Flen, Dr. J. E. Lookout; Dr. H. C. C., who lives on an adjoining farm; Dr. J. D., a dentist of Sedalia; Mrs. Lulu Luther, of Pueblo, Col.; Mrs. Nellie Brashear, who resides with her mother, and Mrs. Julia Smith, of Los Angeles, Cal.

Deceased was a member of the Baptist church and was one of Pettis county's best citizens. His death will be a loss to the community where he had resided so long.

The funeral services will be held at the residence at 1 o'clock today, the Rev. Clemens, of Marshall, officiating, after which the remains will be taken to Lamonte and interred in the cemetery there.

MINERS TO RETURN TO WORK

Operators Receded From Their Open Shop Position.

Springfield, Ill., May 9.—It is announced that a canvass of the referendum vote of the local unions showed a majority in favor of continuing the agreement of 1906 and paying the shot firers.

The operators today receded from their stand for an open shop and the miners will return to work immediately.

FATHER OF MRS. GOULD

Dies in Insane Asylum at Jacksonville, Illinois.

Jacksonville Ill., May 9.—Seldon P. Clemmons, father of Katherine Clemmons Gould, died here yesterday in the insane asylum, aged 70 years.

In Honor of Bride-to-Be.

Miss Bess Brinton entertained thirty lady friends at her home, 615 East Tenth street, Friday night, in honor of the approaching marriage of her sister, Miss Lillian, to Mr. John Murphy.

All were attired in comical costumes, and an old-fashioned spelling match and dancing furnished amusement. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. C. A. Cornmire, Miss Mary McGinley and Miss Maud Mann. Refreshments of strawberry ice cream and cake were served.

Were Married Saturday.

Allen C. Conrad, of Hughesville, and Sarah Melissa Burns, of this city, were married by Rev. S. S. Martin at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

A BOY AGED 20 SUICIDED

FREDERICK I. SIMMONS TOOK CARBOLIC ACID FRIDAY EVENING.

WAS A SECTION LABORER ON KATY

Feared He Would Be Scolded By His Father Because He Had Sold a Calf for Less Than Its Real Value.

Frederick I. Simmons, 20 years old, employed as a section laborer for the M. K. & T., committed suicide by drinking two ounces of carbolic acid at his home, 405 East Chestnut street, at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening.

Fearing that he would be scolded by his father, E. T. Simmons, for selling a calf at less than the real value of the animal, the young man left home after the supper hour, saying that he was going to town.

He returned shortly afterward and called his 12-year-old sister, Gertrude, requesting her to bring him a glass. She complied and the young man emptied the contents of the two ounce vial into the glass.

Instantly, and in view of his sister, he swallowed a portion of the acid. The young girl, frightened by his actions, ran to her mother, who hurried to her son's side. As the mother approached the boy drank the remaining portion of the drug and then ran from the house.

He had gone only a few steps when he staggered and fell.

His father went to his assistance and carried him into the house, summoning a physician, but when the latter arrived the young man was past assistance and died within a few minutes.

Young Simmons had been out of work for several days, but the family attribute the sale of the calf, at a loss, as the cause for the deed.

The dead boy formerly belonged to the Sedalia Rifles and is well spoken of by those who knew him.

Rev. R. C. Miller will conduct funeral services at the East Sedalia Baptist church at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and burial will be made in the city cemetery. The Modern Woodmen of America will have charge of the services.

GUESTS OF MRS. DEXTER

High School Graduating Class and Faculty Were Entertained.

The 1908 graduating class of the Sedalia High school, also the members of the faculty, were guests of honor at a very delightful entertainment given by Mrs. C. S. Dexter in honor of her daughter, Ruth, at the Sedalia Printing company hall Friday night.

The grand march was led by Miss Dexter and Richard Carman, after which a two-step was enjoyed, followed by a song by Maizie Ramsey and then the other dancing numbers.

Misses Grace Carman and Grace McKenzie served fruit punch during the evening and later on refreshments of ham sandwiches, pickles, potato chips, yellow and white mints were served.

It was a late hour when the affair was concluded, and all returned home, delighted with the event.

CALL IN MUCH MONEY

An Additional 25,000,000 on or Before May 23d.

Washington, May 9.—It is stated that the secretary of the treasury has received all of the $20,000,000 from national banks, called for on or before today.

An additional sum of $25,000,000 has been called for on or before May 23.

LOCAL OPTION ELECTION

Validity Questioned Because Farmington Was Included.

Jefferson City, May 9.—Frank H. Harris, of St. Louis, has filed an application with the state supreme court in banc for a writ of mandamus against the county court of St. Francois county, which questions the validity of the local option election held in that county March 7 last.

It is alleged in the application for the mandamus that the election is invalid for the reason that the city of Farmington, having more than 2500 population, was arbitrarily included in the election by the court and was forced to vote in the proposition when it should have held a special election, the dramshop law excepting cities of over 2500 and providing for their holding separate elections on the liquor question.

The test is made on the refusal of the court to grant a saloon license to William M. Mahon in the city of Farmington on the ground that local option had been adopted in that city. The supreme court took the application under advisement and will pass on it in a day or two.

DR. E. E. HERRICK IS DEAD

WELL KNOWN VETERINARIAN DIED OF LOCKJAW FRIDAY NIGHT.

HE HAD BEEN ILL LESS THAN WEEK

Rev. Frank Y. Campbell Will Conduct the Funeral Services at the Family Residence on Monday Morning.

Dr. Ebenezer Emory Herrick, for six years a veterinary surgeon of this city, died of lockjaw at his home, 222 East Sixth street, at 10 o'clock Friday night, aged 51 years.

Dr. Herrick was taken ill last Wednesday, although a week ago today he complained of not feeling well. At 1 o'clock Wednesday morning he suffered severe pain, and the family physician was summoned. Later other physicians were summoned in consultation, but medical skill and attention proved of no avail.

The disease is thought to have been contracted from treating a diseased horse, and the physicians place little credence in the report that tetanus resulted from the kick of a horse.

Dr. Herrick was a native of Indiana, and came to Sedalia a little over six years ago. He was one of the best known veterinarians in this section of the state, and many, indeed, learned of his death with sorrow.

He was a member of the W. O. W. and belonged to the Baptist church. Besides his wife, he leaves three children, as follows: Mrs. R. F. Hume, of Canon City, Colo.; Emory, an 8-year-old son, and Lottie, a 3-year-old daughter, at home. He also leaves two brothers, Samuel and Orlando, both living at Springfield, Mo.

Rev. F. Y. Campbell, pastor of the First Baptist church, will conduct funeral services at the family residence at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and burial will be made in Crown Hill cemetery.

The following will serve as pallbearers: E. H. Hilliard, Robert A. Baldwin and Gus Arnold, representing the family, and E. M. Shields, W. S. Thomas and Granville McCabe, representing the Woodmen of the World.

CONGRESS TO ADJOURN

The Date Will Likely Be Saturday, the 23rd of May.

Washington, May 9.—Strong efforts are being made to have congress adjourn not later than two weeks from today.

Chairman Tawney, of the house committee on appropriations, announces that the general deficiency bill will be reported by next Thursday.

This is the last big appropriation bill and it probably will pass without discussion.

Only One-Tenth of a Crop.

J. S. Bergamaster, of Smithton, who is extensively engaged in the berry business, says the earlier strawberries are killed, but that there will be a limited supply of the late varieties. Mr. Bergamaster has five acres in strawberries, and he says he does not expect more than one-tenth of a crop.

Licensed to Wed.

A marriage license was issued to the following yesterday:

Robert E. Warren and Edith H. Shy, both of Sedalia.

Joseph Elmer Day and Minnie Day, both of Green Ridge.

A BUILDING FOR WOMEN

'TIS ONE OF THE ACTUAL NECESSITIES AT THE STATE FAIR GROUNDS.

SUGGESTIONS OF MISS ANNA CLARK

She is President of the Federated Clubs of the Fifth District—How the Desired End Can Be Attained.

Miss Anna Lou Clark, of Booneville, president of the Fifth district of the Federated clubs, gave an interesting talk to Sorosis ladies and invited guests at the art hall of the public library Saturday afternoon.

Miss Clark, after being introduced by Mrs. John Montgomery, president of Sorosis, entered at once heartily into her subject—the necessity of a woman's building at the state fair grounds.

Miss Clark spoke enthusiastically of the advantages of such a building. Aside from personal comfort, how programs could be arranged that would be instructive as well as entertaining; also lectures in forestry, domestic science, home economics, and many other subjects that would give food for thought and an inspiration to attain higher ideals.

Miss Clark demonstrated the necessity of combining the art hall and woman's building. If the most perfect articles were taken from the art hall to the woman's building and an illustration given of how to attain that perfection, many would return home from the fair better able to live useful and happy lives. The same could be said of arts and crafts. To attain the best and to combine beauty with utility should be the lesson taught at the state fair.

Miss Clark said an appropriation had been made by the different federated clubs to provide a tent for the women at the state fair of 1908 and that when the fair board recognized the fact that there was really need of a building they would act in accordance.

The speaker emphasized the influence of women, and said that when they could bring facts to bear their cause would always be successful.

Miss Clark closed her remarks by suggesting that two ladies from Sedalia visit Springfield, Ill., and inspect the woman's building at that place.

Mrs. Harris Hickox, of Springfield, Ill., who is the guest of Mrs. C. E. Messerly, was present and described the Illinois building, and the steps taken to obtain it.

Mrs. Sallie Potter Sneed and Mrs. Chas. Evans also gave interesting talks, and all in all the afternoon's suggestions were well calculated to arouse the enthusiasm that is necessary to ultimate success as outlined by Miss Clark.

MAKE HIM VICE ADMIRAL

Frisco People Want Admiral Evans Promoted.

San Francisco, May 9.—At the close of the banquet to Secretary Metcalf and the officers of the combined fleet, tendered by citizens last night, a message was sent to congress requesting that Admiral Evans be created vice admiral.

The command of the fleet was today turned over to Rear Admiral Thomas, who retains it but five days, stepping aside May 15 for Admiral Chas. G. Sperry.

Admiral Evans was too ill to take part in the formalities of turning over the fleet. As Admiral Thomas came over to the side of the officers' flagship, the band struck up a strain and saluting guns of all the ships of the fleet boomed out in honor of the new commander.

Admiral Evans immediately boarded his private car and departed for Washington, D. C.

RELIGION FOR THE TARS

Oakland Day on the Fleet Celebration Program.

San Francisco May 9.—This was Oakland day on the fleet celebration program and large crowds of sailors and visitors visited that city and were entertained in a lavish manner. Thousands of children visited the warships today, this day having been set aside especially for the reception of the youngsters on Uncle Sam's big vessels.

While the entertainment committee has been busy since the fleet's arrival in amusing and entertaining the tars, their spiritual welfare has not been forgotten.

Religious services of a non-sectarian character will be held tomorrow in the naval pavillion, while the men with special denominational predilections will be welcomed in all the San Francisco churches.

The pastors of the various churches have also combined to give entertainments of a social, musical and literary character during the stay of the fleet.

SUSPECT WAS RELEASED

THE WOMAN ARRESTED AT SYRACUSE, NEW YORK, NOT MRS. GUINNESS.

IS OF HIGHLY RESPECTED FAMILY

Lives at Franklin, Pa., and Was on Her Way to New York to Visit Relatives—No Other Bodies Found Saturday.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 9.—This morning after a long interview with the woman arrested late last night on a New York Central train, supposed to be Mrs. Belle Guinness, the La Porte, Ind., murderess, the police said she did not answer the description and she was ordered released.

The woman claims to be Mrs. L. A. Herron, of Franklin, Pa., whose husband was formerly vice president of the Sethness company, Chicago. He recently died, and she was on her way to visit relatives, a highly respected family, in New York.

La Porte, Ind., May 9.—Again this morning diggers began the gruesome work of excavating for more bodies on the little Guinness farm which has from its soil yielded to the world secrets which prove its owner, Mrs. Belle Guinness, to be anarchist and the greatest murderess of modern times.

Up to noon no additional bodies had been recovered.

DIVORCE DAY SATURDAY

Judge Hoffman Called to Pass Upon Five Cases.

The following entries were docketed in the Pettis county circuit court Saturday:

John Conson vs. James Jenkins, damages; motion for costs overruled.

Eliza Byrd vs. Walter Byrd, divorce; motion for alimony sustained and $25 suit money allowed.

Albert Le Roy Raines vs. Mary V. Raines, divorce; motion for alimony sustained and $25 suit money allowed.

Sarah E. Garth vs. Mortimer Garth, divorce; decree granted plaintiff.

Joseph C. Maus vs. Edith Maus, divorce; decree granted plaintiff.

Lucy Sunderland vs. Josiah Sunderland, divorce; decree granted plaintiff.

Mr. Archias Going to Europe.

L. H. Archias, of the Archias Seed store, Saturday purchased of F. E. Hoffman, sr., a ticket from New York to Cherbourg, France, to sail on the steamship Amerika, of the Hamburg-American line, in June.

Mr. Archias will be accompanied by his brother, J. C. Archias, of Denver, and three Catholic priests, as follows: Fr. Haeckler, of Holden; Fr. Smith, of Lake Creek, and Fr. Hoverstadt, of Montrose.

Mr. Archias stated to the Democrat-Sentinel Saturday that he expected to be absent about eight weeks.

"Grandma" Petty Very Ill.

Mrs. Edna Petty, known as "Grandma" Petty, was as low as could possibly be Saturday. Her family is at her bedside, and the final summons at any time would not occasion surprise.

Little Child Seriously Ill

W. J. Sprague was summoned home from Greenfield, Mo., Saturday on account of the critical illness of his infant, who is very low at its parents' home, Fifteenth and Kentucky avenues.

TROUBLE FOR ROBINSON

THE MISSOURI ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE SUPERINTENDENT IS OPPOSED.

AROUSED ENMITY OF C. E. STOKES

Tells of State Convention of the League to Be Held in Sedalia June 2, 3 and 4—Prominent People Coming.

When it is remembered that Sedalia will soon be in the throes of a red hot local option fight, preliminary to the special election on June 11 to vote upon the question, we following from the St. Louis Republic of Saturday is of unusual interest at this time:

U. G. Robinson, superintendent of the Missouri Anti-Saloon league, according to his own statement, has aroused the enmity of Charles E. Stokes, of Kansas City, national committeeman of the prohibition party, because he would not follow Stokes' advice to submit the question of state-wide prohibition in Missouri to the voters before 1910.

Robinson says he also has the opposition of a large number of "third-party prohibitionists" in Missouri, who are in favor of submitting a constitutional prohibition amendment to the voters at the coming general election and who have urged that Governor Folk call a special session of the legislature to submit the amendment.

Consequently, Robinson says, these prohibitionists are in favor of ousting him from the presidency of the Missouri Anti-Saloon league, on the ground that he is a hindrance to the anti-liquor movement in this state.

"But there is absolutely no danger of my being ousted from the Anti-Saloon league," Robinson said, "and any effort on the part of my enemies to capture the Anti-Saloon league state convention at Sedalia, June 2, 3 and 4, will fail. The delegates to this convention are my appointees, in charge of the local anti-saloon organizations of counties. They have been educated up to the 1910 movement, and I expect to introduce a resolution in the convention at Sedalia to cement the Missouri anti-saloon forces to this proposition.

"The Missouri Anti-Saloon league is not a political organization and does not espouse the cause of the prohibitionists any more than it does the democrat or republican parties. Because of this attitude, I have the opposition of Stokes.

"Of the seventy-four dry counties in Missouri sixty-one have been made dry through my personal efforts."

The Sedalia convention will be presided over by National Superintendent P. A. Baker, of Columbus. Among the speakers will be Seaborn Wright, of Rome, Ga., and Father J. T. Coffey, of St. Leo's Catholic church, St. Louis. The prime object of the convention is finally to organize a state board of trustees of the Missouri Anti-Saloon league, no authoritative central body having been created formally heretofore.

The Rev. W. B. Palmore, chairman of the executive committee of the Missouri prohibition party, also is chairman of the Missouri Anti-Saloon league headquarters committee.

THE FIRST ANNUAL CAMP

Of Missouri Fox and Wolf Hunting Club Held Saturday.

The Missouri Fox and Wolf Hunting club, with a membership of one less than forty, met at the county court room Saturday and arranged to hold the first annual camp hunt on Muddy creek, two miles west of Georgetown, on May 19-23, inclusive.

Five hundred invitations will be issued to non-resident hunters to participate, and C. F. Walsh will conduct a restaurant during the camp on the camp grounds.

At Saturday's meeting resolutions were passed prohibiting the using of liquor or gambling on the grounds during the hunt.

A Coming Wedding.

Charles E. Hikes, of Chicago, and Miss Tinnie Cordelia Norton, of this city, will be married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis D. Norton, four miles east of the city, on June 24.

UNPRECEDENTED PUBLIC EXPENDITURES.

When Speaker Cannon shall have given the gavel its last thump on the desk for this session of congress, there will have been recorded an unprecedented public expenditure.
This congress went to Washington amid the shock of a financial disturbance in the early fall, and it has made appropriations for the first session of the sixtieth congress that will exceed a billion of dollars. Only a few years ago the first billion dollar congress in the time of Speaker Reed astonished the country. Now it has reached the billion dollar mark in the first session of a congress, and there is every possibility that it will have appropriated two billions of dollars before the sixtieth congress steps out on the 4th of March, 1909.

It must be remembered also that this great appropriation comes with a nearly empty treasury, and facing a deficit for the fiscal year of about sixty millions of dollars and for the entire year, ending December 31, of one hundred millions. Nearly all of the yearly appropriation bills have received consideration from the lower house, where, under the law, they must originate. Not one bill has been passed by this congress which does not show an increase with the corresponding bill of last year. This increase runs over $300,000 first in the Indian bill, twenty-six million dollars
the increase in the naval appropriation bill. The appropriations of this session exceed those of the second session of the last congress by over one hundred millions of dollars and to this amount must be added the public building bill appropriating twenty thousand dollars and urgently demanded by those having close districts where the distribution of the money is expected to turn the tide of votes. It is quite natural from a political point of view that the democrats are making use of these facts and figures in campaign documents, and are expecting political advantage from the record of the party in power.

JUDSON HAPMON'S NOMINATION.

In the nomination of Judson Harmon for governor the democrats of Ohio made a wise and excellent choice. It is not impossible to elect a democratic governor in that state, as has been frequently demonstrated,
provided a good man is nominated.
And the Buckeye democrats usually rise to the occasion. Several of the highest grade governors Ohio has had since the civil war have been democrats, the most recent being the late John M. Pattison.

Judson Harmon will make a splendid candidate. A former member of the cabinet, a lawyer of the Benjamin Harrison type, a man with a clean and dignified political record and a publicist of presidential call-ber, he towers head and shoulders above any other candidate for the honor in either party. Mr. Harmon was not a candidate for the nomination in the sense that he sought it.
The choice is the spontaneous call to duty from a heavy majority of the delegates to the state convention.
The opposition to Harmon which was fostered and led by Tom L. Johnson, was what might properly be characterized as one-man hostility. The division in the convention was a test of Johnson's strength and now that Harmon has been nominated he will receive the undivided support of his party at the polls.

Ohio being normally a heavy republican state and this being national campaign year, with the prospect of an Ohioan's nomination for the presidency, the odds are against the democrats. Still, the belligerency of Senator Foraker and his followers must be taken into consideration, and to what extent this will affect the voting in November is a question which can not be answered. However, Harmon's nomination is a credit to the democracy of Ohio, and should he be elected he would give that state one of the strongest and most noteworthy administrations in its history.

James J. Ferguson.

Another friend and companion has passed over the line that forever separates us in this world, but as Christians we believe has entered into the life whose glory has no line of separation, neither sorrow nor pain. Joseph J. Ferguson, who for seventy three years lived and acted his part among us, as husband, father, friend and companion, was born in what is now Smith's Grove, Ky., in 1834. He was the son of James and Elmina Ferguson, but he never knew an own father's care, for before the child's eyes looked upon this world the father had passed from it, leaving him and a brother and sister to the sorrowing mother.

So early in life circumstances trained and developed in him the energy, self-reliance and resourcefulness he so greatly manifested. In early boy-hood he began life for himself and before he reached man's estate he located in Pettis county, Missouri, where he spent the remainder of his life with the exception of a few years in Texas, where he operated a cattle ranch. He was always largely identified with the stock interests of his community, until age and failing health compelled him to give up active labor.

Mr. Ferguson located in Pettis county when it had no railroads and but sparse population. He lived to see one of the first counties of the state. Toward its growth he contributed his efforts. In the stormy days of the war and the gloomy ones that followed he stood for law and order, and school and church. He was a loyal and sincere friend. He would face any peril to aid or defend a friend. In his family he was a loving husband and a most devoted father. In 1857 he was married to Miss Annie E. Crawford, the eldest daughter of the late Col. John E.
Crawford. Of this union there were six children, five of whom are living:
John E. and Charles C. Ferguson, of Hereford, Texas; James L. Ferguson,
Centerville, Ala.; Mrs. F. O. Shepard,
Arrow Rock, Mo., and Mrs. R. M.
Perkins, of Dalton, Neb.

Besides the wife and children, the deceased leaves three half sisters and one half brother, all living near the old home in Kentucky, the own brother and sister having gone before.

On April 19, Easter Sunday, Jas.
J. Ferguson was laid to rest, near the home where fifty-one years ago he wooed and won the wife he so much loved, and where a little later he professed his faith and allegiance to the Master. The sweet and simple service was conducted by his old friend, neighbor and pastor, the Bro. Rodgers, in the presence of a large congregation of friends and neighbors.

By the side of the loved eldest daughter and near Bethlehem church,
a place he had loved and known,
when all nature was bursting into life and beauty, with the melody of the birds mingling with the burial service, surrounded by loved ones he was laid to rest, to await the resurrection of the body.

Wanted to Know.

It was at a Symphony Orchestra concert conducted by Walter Damrosch.
The audience was anticipating an exquisite rendition of choice selections from some famous composers, conspicuous among whom was Richard Wagner, the opening number in this instance being one of his compositions. As was usual, the leading performers of the orchestra, as they appeared upon the platform, was met with enthusiastic applause, the climax being reached with the appearance of Mr. Damrosch himself.

When the excitement had somewhat subsided and the concert was about to begin, a well-dressed woman, seated quite near the front, turned to the woman beside her, and said in an audible voice: "Pardon me, but would you kindly tell me which one is Wagner?"

Great Forest Reserves of Nevada.

The national forest reserve in Nevada now reaches the enormous total of 8,528,479 acres. The total acreage of the state, including water surface, is something over 71,000,000. Therefore the forest reserve comprises more than one acre in every ten. The last reserve formed was the Las Vegas National Forest, locally known as Sheep Mountains. It covers an area of 195,340 acres and is the eighth to be formed in the state.

In addition to this the secretary of the interior has announced the withdrawal of 616,451 acres in White Pine and Nye counties, to be added to the national forest reserve, making a total of over 9,000,000 acres that will have been withdrawn in a short time.

Boston Women Please Actress.

Sarah Bernhardt says some pleasant things about the Boston woman in her "Memories of My Life." She was struck by the "harmony and softness of her gestures," and the Bostonian race seemed to her "the most refined and mysterious of all American races.
The women adore music, the theater, literature, painting and poetry," she writes. "They know everything and understand everything, are chaste and reserved and neither laugh nor talk very loudly."

A Theatrical Mix-Up.

"So you support yourself by playing games of chance?"
"No, sir; I gambol for a living."
"What's the difference in your avowal?"
"What's the difference—a vowel, I play a lamb in the new pastoral burlesque."—Baltimore American.

American Life in the Open.

Nor is it only in the field of social gossip that America insists upon and always obtains the fullest publicity.
Its government lives in a glass house,
with all the electric lights turned on,
the blinds up and a reporter at each window, if not at each keyhole. The pros and cons of every cause celebre are threshed out in the press long before they are brought before the courts. The most unpopular man I ever encountered in America was an Englishman who had the audacity to surround his "place" on the outskirts of Chicago with a high brick wall.
High brick walls are bitterly resented as undemocratic. There are no hedges in America, not because they will not grow, but because they are an invasion of your neighbor's right to an uninterrupted view of whatever you may happen to be doing.—London Chronicle.

For Home Gardener.

Most ladies who plant sweet peas plant them in trenches, but in some cases these seem to be unsuccessful, and both methods may be used, and the result depended upon for future work. For those who have not planted them before, both methods may be tried. There is no flower that gives more satisfaction if the cultivation is successful.

A Thought for the Day.

"Make yourselves nests of pleasant thoughts," Ruskin wrote, and these "houses for the soul to live in" are not possible if you belittle your neighbor or magnify your own importance by continually talking and thinking about your own small concerns. You are a very small fraction of the universe, and there is so much else worth contemplating.

GORRELL FOR ASSESSOR

Well Known Shopman and Democrat Aspires for County Office.

Among the announcements in this morning's Democrat-Sentinel is that of Clay R. Gorrell, who is an authorized aspirant for the office of assessor of Pettis county on the democratic ticket.

Mr. Gorrell is a pioneer of Pettis, having lived in the county all of his life, and there is probably no man within the borders of the county who is better or more favorably known. Having spent his early life on the farm and the past dozen or more years in the railroad shops in this city, he has made the acquaintance of all new-comers and knows personally nearly every person who has lived in the county any considerable time. He is a "mixer" and is respected by all of his acquaintances.

Politically, Mr. Gorrell is a democrat and has taken active interest in politics for years. He is ever to be found in his party's support and makes an effective but clean campaign.

His knowledge of real estate valuation, both city and rural, qualifies him for the office of assessor, and the Democrat-Sentinel commends him to the best consideration of the democratic voters.

LOUISIANA IS FOR TAFT

Republicans to Hold State Convention Tomorrow.

New Orleans, May 8.—Louisiana republicans will hold their state convention to nominate delegates to Chicago on Monday and will undoubtedly choose men favorable to the nomination of Taft.

The wing of the party which will meet Monday is recognized by the secretary of state as entitled to official use of the party emblem.

The negro branch of the party has already held its convention, endorsing Foraker for his action in the Brownsville investigation.

FORTY YEARS' A JAILER

Hospital Patient Better.

Cecil Donnell, a stranger, who fell at Mrs. O. A. Crandall's home late Friday afternoon, was pronounced better by the city hospital matron Saturday. Donnell is said to have been intoxicated at the time, which accounts for the happening. A mild attack of heart trouble also figured in the fall.

DAVE HARTSHORN A CANDIDATE

Sedalia's Pioneer Contractor Wants to Be Assessor.

Dave Hartshorn, the contractor, who has lived in Pettis county long enough to see land increase in valuation from $10 to $125 an acre, is a candidate for the office of assessor and asks the suffrage of democrats in support of his aspirations.

Mr. Hartshorn has lived in Pettis county forty-two years, during which time he has worked at farming and contracting. He is the oldest contractor in point of continuous service in the county.

Uncle Dave, as he is more familiarly known, has many acquaintances and his friends are numbered by the score. He is thoroughly qualified for the duties of the assessor's office, his long service at contracting making him especially fitted for variations.

Mr. Hartshorn is a democrat and adheres to the doctrines of democracy in words and deeds. He would unquestionably make a good race if given the nomination.

"MERRY WIDOWS" BARRED

Council Provides Fine for Wearers at Public Gatherings.

Fairfield, Ill., May 9.—The merry widow hat has been given a black eye by the common council of this city. An ordinance has been passed by the city fathers, one-third of whom are widowers, declaring no woman shall wear a hat in church, at the opera, show, or any public gathering after being asked to remove the same. A penalty of from $1 to $3 attaches to the "hats-off" ordinance.

The women insist that it is one of the rights guaranteed them by the constitution to wear hats in church, and they sternly denounce the council's action as confiscatory of their rights and prerogatives.

We take this method of apprising our patrons and friends of our decision to discontinue the serving of meals. Saturday, May 9th, was the concluding day. We will, however, continue the bakery and ice cream business, which departments, because of their increase, made it necessary to give more attention. We desire to thank those who have contributed to our success and trust we will receive a continuation of your patronage.—The Boston Cafe, J. W. Butters, Prop.

LITTLE WIFE DROVE HIM HOME.

Downfall of Burly Anarchist Saved Day for Reporter.

Gen. Bingham's reference to the professional "reds" as cowards recalls the experience of a New York Tribune reporter who went to a Fourth street saloon on the day following Johann Most's first appearance in Cooper Union. Something about the young man's appearance, which was probably not in harmony with the surroundings, attracted attention and a burly, full-bearded man approached and asked him bluntly: "Are you a reporter?" The affirmative reply drew forth a torrent of abuse, which culminated in the command: "Hinaus!" A barroom full of excited, half-drunk anarchists against one slender young man was an unequal arrangement, and the "hinaus" command was about to be obeyed when a little woman with a child in her arms rushed in and made a straight line toward the bully. He was her husband. She called him vile names, upbraided him, and then ordered him to "Go home quick!" He resisted for a moment, and then humbly followed the little woman while some of his friends shouted "Hinaus!" Everybody laughed, the atmosphere in the anarchist center was changed, and the reporter remained and got his story.

The Romance of Helium.

Another chapter has been added to the romantic history of the "sun element" by the brief telegram to Prof. Dewar from Prof. Kamerlingh Onnes of Leyden announcing that the latter has succeeded in converting helium into a solid. Helium was first discovered spectroscopically in the sun—hence its name—by Sir Norman Lockyer during the total solar eclipse of 1868, the first eclipse at which astronomers had the spectroscopic at their disposal. Its existence on the earth was unknown until 1895, when Sir William Ramsay found its distinctive yellow line in the spectrum of cleveite, and quite recently it has been found associated with radium, which may possibly prove to be made up of helium and lead. Owing to the intense cold required, all previous attempts to solidify helium have failed, though Prof. Dewar reached 456 degrees Fahrenheit of frost in his liquid air and frozen hydrogen experiments. It is probable Prof. Onnes has reached the absolute zero—450 degrees Fahrenheit of frost—to succeed in freezing helium.

First to Use Sewing Machine.

Miss Elizabeth M. Kilbourn, said to be the first woman who ever took a stitch on a sewing machine, is now living at Winsted, Conn. She was teaching in Hartford when she called one day at the workshop of Elias Howe to see the new invention which she had heard talked about.

Howe received her cordially, and after explaining the working of the machine asked her if she would care to try how it would work. She was delighted at the idea, but felt some timidity on account of her total ignorance of machinery. After being assured by Howe that the mechanism of his invention was not so delicate as she imagined, she took her seat and ran up a short seam. When she got up from the machine he said to her: "You are the first woman in this world who ever took a stitch on a sewing machine."

Pointing a Moral.

"Sonny," said Uncle Eben, "did you ever watch one o' dis here little tug boats come snortin' along takin' kyab of a great big ocean liner?"
"Yaas, indeed," answered Pick-aniny Jim.
"An' did you ever see one er dese 'lectric motors pick up a han'some, shiny locomotive an' drag it frou de Baltimore tunnel?"
"Lots o' times."

"An' did you ever see a quiet ol' knee-sprung white hoss pullin' a helpless automobile to town?"
"I sho' has."

Veteran Sailor Now Retired.

Rear Admiral Henry S. Lyon, hero of the Samoan disaster in 1889, victim of three wrecks, and veteran of the civil and Spanish wars, was recently retired and settled down to a humdrum life in the little village of Paris, Me. The law says that the retiring age in the navy is 62, though physically the admiral is as good as ever, and has as fine a stock of nautical knowledge and experience as any man living. When given shore duty it was largely as an ordnance officer or inspector of ordnance, torpedoes and small arms, regarding which he is a recognized expert.

Heavy Tips.

"Yes," said the talkative barber, "in recent years we barbers expect tips." "I'll give you three," sputtered the man in the chair, as he blew the lather out of his mouth.
"You are very kind, sir."
"Yes, I'll give you a tip that this shaving soap tastes like axle grease, the razor feels like a saw and if you don't stop clipping the skin off my ear I'll get up and thrash you within an inch of your life."

"I have had a novel experience," said Lucinda, in the New York Sun. "I certainly have."

"This afternoon I went shopping in Fifth avenue. Automobiles and carriages and fine shops and people, life and motion and color all the time—why, I love simply to walk in Fifth avenue, and here it was, as gay as could be, and then we heard the sound of an ambulance going coming nearer and nearer, the ambulance moving in and out among all those fine carriages and automobiles, hurrying some poor man that had been hurt to the hospital, and then in a minute it rushed past us and then we saw the young ambulance surgeon in immaculate white sitting there so cool and easy while the ambulance hurried by and everybody turned to look, and then the first thing I knew—

"The ambulance surgeon bowed to me! Bowed beautifully, to me!" "And wasn't that a surprising experience? Well it certainly was! And did I know him? Why, sure. P. and S. last year, and now in one of the great hospitals and going out with the ambulance."

"Why, we read about him in the papers all the time. Some dreadful thing happens, and everybody is all wrought up over it, and you read long accounts of it, and then we come to where it says the wounded man was attended to by Dr. So-and-So of Such-and-Such hospital, and that interests us greatly because we know him, and here he is in all these wonderful things. And then to think that I should meet him! on the ambulance! in Fifth avenue! and that he should bow to me! from the ambulance!"

"Wasn't that an exciting experience? And what do you suppose can happen to me next?"

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bedwetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

CIVIC IMPROVEMENT LEAGUE

Thanks All Those Who Assisted on Demonstration Day.

The officers and members of the Civic Improvement league desires to extend their sincere thanks and appreciation to all those who so kindly assisted in making such a grand success of the exercises on Demonstration day, May 1st.

Especially do they wish to thank the speakers on the program, Messrs. Mayor J. L. Babcock, ex-Mayor John A. Collins, Dr. H. B. Coie and Prof. G. V. Buchanan, the teachers and the 3,000 school children for the beautiful chorus rendered, and to Mrs. Harvey MacGugin, their able directress; to Prof. G. V. Buchanan, for granting permission to the school children to take part in the exercises; to the county court for the use of the court house and lawn; to all those who so kindly furnished automobiles and carriages for the parade, and last, but not least, to the newspapers for the liberal space given, which has aided so materially the success of the league.

ELABORATE DECORATIONS

Unusual Display at the Flower-Barnett Dry Goods Store.

The annual May White sale now in progress at the Flower-Barnett dry goods store is marked by elaborate decorations. This store has looked beautiful on many occasions, but it certainly has never been more attractively arranged or more tastefully decorated than for this event. The scheme is fully in accord with the occasion, white predominating, and all over the store there are tiny white carrier pigeons suspended between gilt trellises which support dainty white goods of every kind, which are ornamented with Japanese lanterns of many shapes and designs. This store surpasses many of the metropolitan centers in attractiveness and it is not an exaggerated assertion when it is said that it is keeping pace with the largest stores of the biggest cities of the country.

GREER FOR SHERIFF

Well Known Washington Township Man Seeks County Office.

E. H. Greer, the well known farmer of Washington township, is an aspirant for the nomination for the office of sheriff of Pettis county on the republican ticket. Mr. Greer has a wide acquaintance in Pettis and especially is he well known in the northern part of the county, where he was born and reared. His friends are numbered among both republicans and democrats, who, because of his sterling qualifications, respect him.

Mr. Greer was constable of Washington township for one term and made a very creditable officer, and his duties as constable gave him an insight to the office of sheriff. He is fearless and possesses other qualifications to filling the office to which he aspires.

FINE PAINTINGS GO TO WEST.

Valuable Art Collections Outdo Those of the East.

"American oil painters get much more encouragement from the wealthy men of the west than they do from the millionaires of the east," said Henry Reinhardt of Milwaukee in New York the other day. "There is more patriotism among the western men of means, and they pay better prices for American pictures than the easterners. American works are going into the galleries of the west. Many New York collectors of oil paintings would be greatly surprised if they should make an inspection of the private collections of Milwaukee, Toledo, Cleveland, Denver and other western cities. In the city of Milwaukee alone we have at least 20 private collections which will run over the $100,000 mark, and fully half of that number will run into $200,000. In New York you have some wonderful paintings in your private collections, but they are hidden as completely from the public as though they were in the wilds of Africa. Nobody gets the benefit of a view of them, not even their owners, because they are constantly in Europe collecting other pictures to 'hide' in New York."

Too Much Prominence?

J. B. Brown, superintendent of the Prudential Life Insurance company, left Saturday for Newark, N. J., in response to a message from headquarters of the company.

From a reliable source the Democrat-Sentinel understands Mr. Brown was called to headquarters on account of the prominent part he is taking in the local option campaign in this city.

TWO BALL GAMES

Lamonte Witnessed Two Good Ones Saturday Afternoon.

Two ball games were pulled off at Lamonte Saturday, the first one being between the "All Stars" and Warrensburg, the Lamonte team winning easily by a score of 12 to 2.

Warrensburg put up a poor article of ball from the start, and all through the contest played a featureless game, while the Lamonte aggregation started strong by making four runs in the first inning, six in the second and the other two later in the game.

The lads from the Quarry City were unable to hit Hayworth, who handed out the teasers for Lamonte, while Brossingham, who essayed to do the twirling for Warrensburg, was batted freely.

Immediately after the game had ended the Mexican club from Central Business college crossed bats with the Lamonte Central High school boys, in one of the fastest and cleanest exhibitions ever witnessed in the neighboring city.

Only one lone score was made and Lamonte was fortunate enough to secure it.

Rissler, who pitched for the High school, made the remarkable record of striking out eighteen of the Mexicans who faced him, and was accorded gilt edged support.

Collins, who pitched for the Mexican baseballists, had plenty of "foolers" up his sleeve, and had errorless ball been played behind him the game would probably have went into extra innings without either team getting so much as a run.

A large crowd of enthusiastic fans witnessed both exhibitions.

PLACES PATIENCE ABOVE ALL.

Supreme Quality in Good Wife, According to This Writer.

Patience is the supreme quality of a good wife.

When humanity shall have evolved a perfect race of men there will be less need of this virtue in women. Now it is chief of the indispensable qualities. For the twentieth-century wife must inevitably learn that she has married an imperfect creature many degrees below the god of her girlish fancy. And for the facing of this unwelcome fact she requires abundant patience.

Woman's most blessed work in the world is the long, long task of fostering the blossoms and ripening the fruit of character in the young. For this there is need of a patience half divine.

"You are growing to have the look in your face that mother has. You don't look like us boys any more," said a boy to his sister. That new look which the boy noted but could not name was patience. There is scarcely a wifely virtue but by indulgence may become a defect. Yet no wife has ever had too large a stock of patience. The patient wife forgives her husband's ill-humors. She discounts his failures and exaggerates his successes.—Chicago American.

WENT TOO FAR INTO FUTURE.

Fortune Teller's Last Words Caused Quick Change of Opinion.

"You are going to be married within a year," said the fortune teller who guaranteed to give satisfaction.

The young lady heaved a glad sigh. "You will go to Europe on your wedding trip."

The beautiful girl drew two or three glad sighs and murmured: "Go on, please."

"He will be rather tall and he will have dark hair."

The girl trembled with joy. She had been skeptical when she sat down. Now she was convinced that the fortune teller was blessed with second sight.

"Is that all?" she asked. "You will have plenty of money, and you will live in another city."

"I am sure it must be George," said the girl, forgetting in her joy that she was speaking out loud. "Do you see anything else in my hand?"

The fortune teller looked again and studied the lines carefully.

"Yes," she said at length, "you will have six children, and—"

"I believe you are a regular fraud," angrily declared the young lady as she picked up her gloves and hastily departed.

WOMEN AS LAWYERS CLERKS

Handled Documents of Case in a London Court.

Great interest was shown in the two women who were in attendance in Mr. Justice Neville's court during the hearing of the action concerning the identity of Mrs. Taylor, the banker's widow, says the London Evening Standard.

Neatly dressed in blue, the two, armed with documents which they placed in front of them on the solicitors' bench, keenly followed every point in the case and whenever called on to produce a document whisked out the right paper in the twinkling of an eye.

They also made notes, gave hints to counsel, and in every way attended strictly to business. They were in the employment of Mr. Ballard of Clifford's Inn, one of the counsel engaged in the case.

Sharp But Pertinent Advice. "Stop seeing snakes and playing dices inside yourself," is the advice one woman lecturer gives and she declares that it is sometimes not an advantage to have an education as one does not need an English accent to be able to help a friend in trouble. Moreover, one can be a fool in plain American and all the knowledge of other languages will not remedy the matter.

Cute Kid. "Yes, Tommy," said his mother, "you've been a very good boy to-day." "All right," cried Tommy, eagerly, "gimme a nickel then." "Oh, no." "Why, ma, you told me Willie Nodore was good for nothin' an' you don't want me to be like him, do you?"—Philadelphia Press.

Local Option

Some say the town is going dry.
Some think it's going wet.
But in either case,
I'll tell it to your face,
We half-sold your shoes—you bet.

We are still in the business.
So you need not worry.
For it matters little
Who'll play the fiddle—
We sold your shoes in a hurry.

If the town does go wet,
Why should we lose?
We have lots of leather
For all kinds of weather,
And handle some fine shoes.

Suppose the town goes dry.
We can still fix that hole
That's in your shoe—
And mighty good, too.

GOING AFTER "SUNSHINE"

Sedalia Merchants Will Assist in Restoring Confidence.

With a view toward encouraging the movement to restore confidence, inaugurated by the National Prosperity association of St. Louis, the members of the Retail Merchants' association of Sedalia (and all merchants, property owners and others whose interests are in Sedalia, it is hoped, will be there) will assemble at the Business Men's club rooms, 404 Ohio street, Monday night. It is the aim to assist in restoring confidence, which was so shattered by the recent financial depression, but which seems to have taken a turn for the better. All that appears to be lacking is confidence. The country is prosperous enough, there are good crop prospects, but the timidity which prevails on account of the lack of confidence is holding the country in check and every community is suffering. Now for some "sunshine" and then things will move along smoother. It is "sunshine" Sedalia and every other community needs, and the Retail Merchants are going after it for Sedalia.

Secretary C. C. Lawson of the Merchants' association, has sent out circulars to all business men, urging their attendance, and it will require the concentrated efforts of all to accomplish the results sought. So it behooves every citizen, merchant, property owner or what not to respond and lend a hand in the movement.

WARREN-SHY NUPTIALS

Pretty Wedding Ceremony Near Smithton Saturday.

A pretty wedding ceremony was solemnized near Smithton at high noon Saturday, when Rev. Dr. J. E. Godhey, a Southern Methodist minister of Little Rock, Ark., united in marriage Robert E. Warren, a prosperous young farmer three miles south of Sedalia, and Miss Edith Helen Shy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Shy, one and one-half miles south of Smithton.

The ceremony, which was an elaborate affair, was celebrated at the home of the bride's parents at exactly 12 o'clock. The bride was attired in a beautiful white Swiss gown of clover leaf pattern, with lace yoke, and carried bride's roses.

Mrs. C. E. West, of Sedalia, was the matron of honor, while Dr. Emory Shy, of Knobnoster, brother of the bride, was the best man. Little Misses Margaret Pottenger, of Longwood, and Elizabeth Kendrick, of Knobnoster, were the flower girls.

After the wedding a seven-course dinner was served at the bride's home. The only attendants outside of the immediate relatives were: Misses Helen and Corinne Lower, Mrs. Edward Pottenger, of New York city; Mrs. and Mrs. C. E. West and D. O. Monsees.

The bridal couple will live on Mr. Warren's farm near Sedalia.

Will Give State Dinner.

The ladies of the First M. E. church will give a state dinner at the church parlors on May 19. Seven tables, one to represent Missouri, Kansas, Kentucky, Illinois, Iowa, Germany and New England, will be set, each to be decorated in different colors. A delicious menu will be set for the guests, and a grand time is anticipated in advance.

DRINK PURE WATER—the most healthful, sparkling and pure is Sweet Springs Water. Sold by the glass where drinks are served and by the case by the wholesale agent, the Arlington Pharmacy.

Paid Insurance Policy.
